SOAR and Employment for SSI/SSDI Beneficiaries

Jen Elder, M.Sc.

Introduction

Individuals who have disabling conditions and receive cash and other benefits through the Social Security Administration's (SSA) Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) programs are eligible for employment supports to assist them in obtaining and maintaining employment. When SSI/SSDI benefits begin, lifelong employment goals do not end. In the spirit of SSI/SSDI Outreach, Access, and Recovery (SOAR) as a critical part of income supports for individuals who are experiencing or at risk of homelessness, people who receive SSI/SSDI are encouraged to seek employment and employment services throughout the application process and after benefits are obtained.

This issue brief describes:

- How to work while applying for SSI/SSDI benefits
- Misconceptions about employment and loss of disability benefits
- How earned income from employment affects SSI/SSDI benefits and Medicare/Medicaid coverage

• Employment resources and work incentives offered by SSA to current SSI/SSDI beneficiaries who want to find work or return to work

• The role SOAR programs can play in connecting individuals to employment resources

Getting the Facts Straight

Misinformation about working and retaining SSI/SSDI benefits can reduce the likelihood a person will attempt to return to work by creating unnecessary fear that they will lose their hard-won benefits. A significant majority of individuals with disabilities want to work.¹ Removing fears and barriers to employment can be a critical step in recovery.

Employment is about more than income. Additional benefits can include:

- An improved housing stability through increased income
- A defined role in the community
- Feelings of self-worth and self-confidence
- New friendships and connections to others
- Added structure to daily life

Myths and Facts About Working and Retaining SSI/SSDI Benefits

Myth #1: Benefits end immediately when you return to work.
Fact: Cash benefits do not end immediately. For how work affects SSI payments see pages 3-4, for SSDI see pages 4-6.
Myth #2: You can work only 20 hours per week while receiving disability benefits.
Fact: There is no limit to the number of hours you can work while receiving disability benefits.
Myth #3: Health insurance ends immediately when you return to work.
Fact: You can still be eligible for Medicaid and Medicare, see page 6-7.
Myth #4: If Social Security knows you are working they will say you aren't disabled anymore.
Fact: SSA suspends Continuing Disability Reviews while beneficiaries are using Ticket to Work and making progress towards employment goals, see page 2-3.

Why Work?

- Approximately 28% of Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI)-only beneficiaries are living below the Federal Poverty Level (FPL)
 - FBL in 2021- $12,880
- 53% are between 100% and 300% of FPL*
- The maximum Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefit amount (2021: $794) is also below FPL

Benefits As a Barrier to Work

- There are many myths about working while on benefits!
- Can be difficult to find reliable source of information! People often hear “word of mouth” stories about what happens when they start working.
- Benefits planning related to work is a highly individualized and complex!

The Basics

- Title XVI/SSI: The more money someone makes, the smaller the benefit check will be. (But total income goes up!)
- Title II/SSDI: Benefit is all or nothing based on the length of time that someone works and whether they are earning over substantial gainful activity (SGA: $1,310 for 2021).

SSI Rules

- SSI is like a seesaw, when one side goes up, the other goes down: The more money that is earned, the less the SSI check will be.
- Because of the way the calculation is designed, SSI beneficiaries will always have more money by working.
- The number of hours or months worked does not matter, only how much the paycheck is.
- Medicaid: If SSI cash benefit stops due to earned income, Medicaid can be kept through 1619(b).
 - There is no time limit on how long Medicaid can be kept using 1619(b), so long as the individual is still eligible.

SSDI Rules

- Trial Work Period- Nine months where beneficiaries can have unlimited earnings, and still receive their SSDI check.
- Extended Period of Eligibility- After the Trial Work Period, SSDI is like a faucet. The check gets turned on and off depending on how much money someone is making. If they earn more than SGA, they will not receive your check that month. If they earn less than SGA, they will receive their check.
- The amount is referred to as Substantial Gainful Activity (SGA). SGA is $1,310 in 2021.
- It does not matter how many hours they work, only how much money they make!
- Medicare- If SSDI is stopped due to work (by performing SGA) beneficiaries may still keep their Medicare for at least 93 months (7 years and 9 months) after the end of the Trial Work Period.

Work Incentives Planning and Assistance (WIPA)

- SSA established the WIPA program to be a source of accurate, individualized information for beneficiaries who are interested in working.
- SSA grants funds to providers across the country who then provide the education and assistance to beneficiaries.
- WIPA services can include general information, in-depth summary and analysis, assistance with work incentives, information about Medicare and Medicaid, and referral to other supports.

Ticket to Work

- Ticket to Work is a program implemented by SSA designed to reduce and, whenever possible, eliminate dependence on cash benefit programs.
- SSA started the Ticket to Work program to help people between the ages of 18-64 who get Social Security disability benefits get the services they need to find a job and to stay employed.
- To implement the Ticket to Work program, SSA sets up agreements with agencies across the country to provide employment services to beneficiaries. These agencies are called Employment Networks (ENs).
- ENs provide services such as career guidance, job placement, job coaching, and/or benefits counseling.
- To receive services, beneficiaries “assign” their Ticket to the EN of their choosing.

Goals of the Ticket to Work Program

- Increase the number of beneficiaries entering the work force
- Reduce beneficiary dependency on cash benefits
- Support an improved quality of life as a result of advancement in employment and greater financial independence

SOAR WORKS

YES, YOU CAN WORK!

Interested in returning to work or trying out work for the first time, but unsure how work will impact your Social Security benefits or if work is even possible for you?

Many people receiving disability benefits, or applying for benefits, really want to work, but fear the consequences. This handout will give you the information you and your family need to learn more about programs, which will assist you with returning to work, or trying out work for the first time!

We can help you find success! These recommended resources provide information on where you can go for assistance to learn more about employment for people with disabilities. Quality services are available to help you better understand all of the federal work incentive programs, including Social Security work supports, for people with disabilities.

MYTHS WE'VE HEARD ON THE STREETS AND FACTS TO BUST THEM UP!

MYTH	FACT
"People with mental illness shouldn't work."	People with mental health conditions are just as productive as other employees. Employers who hire people with mental health conditions report good attendance and punctuality as well as motivation, good work, and job tenure on par with or greater than other employees.
"I will lose my disability benefits, income and health insurance, which I have worked so hard to obtain!"	Not so fast! SSA offers comprehensive work incentives which allows you to keep your benefits for quite a long time. Should you be unable to continue working as a result of your disability, SSA may restart your benefits. Because some SSA rules may be hard to understand, all states have benefit planning resources to help you get started. https://www.ssa.gov/redbook/
"I have never worked before, so I have no skills an employer needs."	People with disabilities with little or no work history do find work that meets their strengths, preferences, abilities, and skills. Supported employment services focus on these factors to help you seek and find competitive employment in the community.
